Press Release

Chelan's Newest Real Estate Brokerage specializes in Commercial Properties

Commercial Real Estate specialist sees market for commercial expertise in growing Chelan!

Manson, February 15, 2006: The Chelan Valley is growing and businesses are preparing to open or grow to meet the area's needs. Criterion Properties just opened a new office in Manson to help folks with their commercial real estate needs. There are other brokerages in the area, but none that have the commercial property focus or expertise of Criterion Properties.

Criterion Properties delivers quality full service office, industrial, retail, development, leasing, right-of-way, multi-family and investment real estate services from Entiat to Brewster!

Al Lorenz founded Criterion Properties in 2003 in Everett, Washington to provide commercial real estate services and property management services. He has participated in development, multi-family and commercial projects since the early 1990s. In 2005 Al and his family moved to the Chelan area to allow his children to attend the Chelan Valley Independent School (www.cvis.org). He brings his expertise in commercial real estate, leasing and development to the Chelan Valley.

Being new to the area has some advantages. Al is familiar with many of the types of projects Chelan has yet to see, but that make sense with all the growth. He can see opportunities in projects others just aren't familiar with. The Chelan Valley is changing and Criterion Properties is here to help. If you have a business that needs a new home, or a space that needs a new business, Criterion Properties has the expertise as well as local, statewide and national contacts to get clients their best deal.
