Press Release

New North Central Washington Real Estate Blogs to be a cooperative effort!

Brokers, Appraisers, Mortgage Specialists, Construction specialists are all invited to contribute!

Manson, October 19, 2007: Two new real estate blogs have been launched serving North Central Washington, www.NCWRealEstateBlog.com and www.ChelanRealEstateBlog.com . If you are interested in local real estate happenings, check them out! You will like what you see.

While they have been developed and launched by Al Lorenz, a local broker with Criterion Properties, and Jerry Isenhardt, of www.GoLakeChelan.com , additional contributors from a cross section of the industries associated with the real estate market are being recruited to contribute.

These blogs are about being a place for the community to talk about what is happening with real estate in the area. It is about having FUN and having access to information. It is NOT about blatant self promotion. They are also forums, with comments sections that allow anybody to weigh in with their opinion on a posting. Anyone can comment if they keep their language clean and their message cordial.

Recent posts in the NCW blog include:
